Pitfighter is shaping up to be a Game Boy great!If you look at the screenshots from the Amiga and Super Nintendo versions, then compare them to the stunning hand-held pics dotted around these pages, you can see just how much work has gone into the game!

TER

LET'S HEAR IT FOR THE BOYS

All three arcade fighters have made it to Game Boy and it's imperative that you learn each of their strengths and weaknesses. Buzz is the heavyweight of the trio; a one-time pro wrestler, he relies on his bulk to down his opponents, as well as his speciality move - a bone-crunching piledriver. Ty is tops when it comes to kick boxing; lightning fast with his fists and feet, he can floor the bad guys in an instant with a stunning roundhouse. Kato, on the other hand, does the biz with his third dan black belt skills, flying around the place like a man possessed! Baddies had better watch their backs when he performs his combo-punch move - it's seriously dangerous!

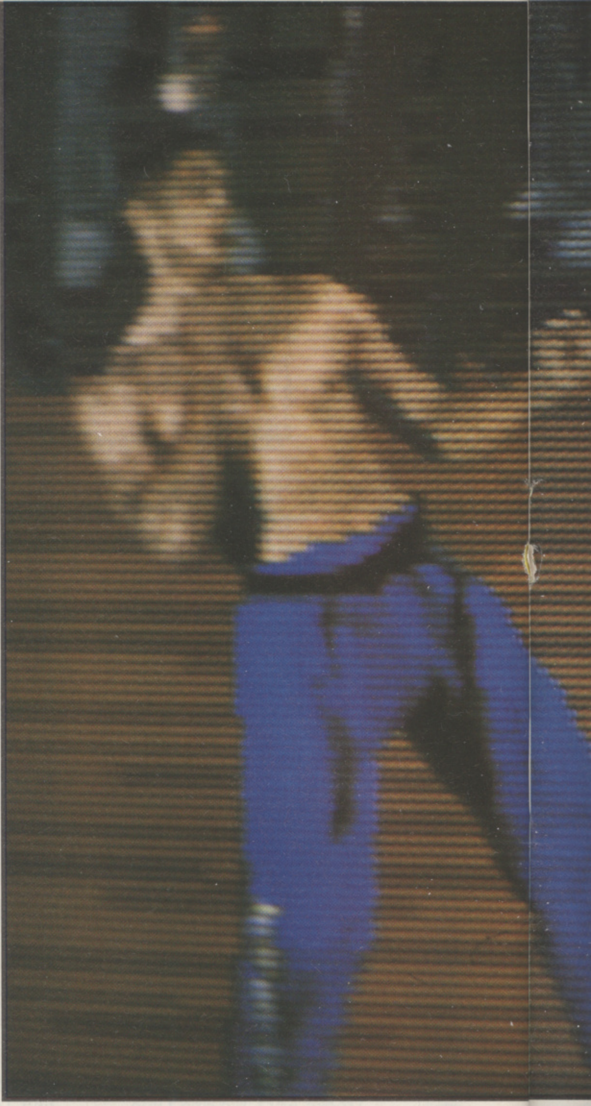
PITFIGHT

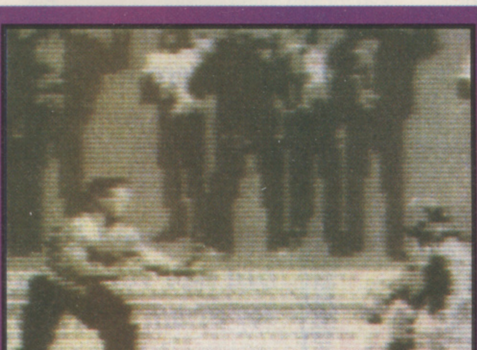
GAME BOY - £TBA

They said it couldn't be done. On the Game Boy? Never! But the doubters are soon to be silenced! Yes, the smash-hit Atari coin-op Pitfighter is coming to the little Nintendo - and how! And if you think that the game's producers, THQ, are going to skimp on the features, just you blummin' well think again! Game Boy streetfighters can choose from any of the three original boot boys - Buzz, Ty and Kato - and view them in all their digitised-from-the-real-thing glory! Each fighter has his own special skills, but what all three have in common is the way they can pick up objects strewn around the fighting pit and use them against their opponents.

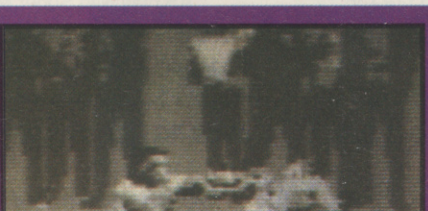
Nine levels of smack, whack 'n' crack action await the hardest heroes, with the ultimate challenge waiting in the wings in the form of the Ultimate Warrior, the most awesome assailant on the circuit. Before even considering getting that far though, there's an entire army of mad, bad battlers to get through - and because there's an awful lot of money to be made in the pitfighting game, you can be sure they'll be no pushover!

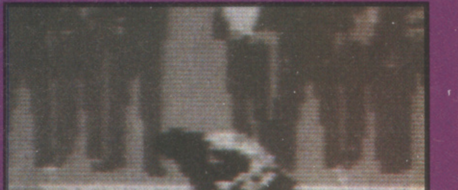
As you can see from these pre-production screenshots, Pitfighter is looking as good, if not better, than versions seen on other, more powerful consoles. We'll be hitting you real hard with a thumping GO! Review of what promises to be one of the most dangerous hand-held games ever very soon - get saving!





GO! Editor Tim Boone was in Las Vegas at the CES not too long ago, and witnessed an early version of Pitfighter in action! To say he was impressed is an understatement - great graphics and super sprite scaling are all in there - let's just keep our fingers crossed and hope the gameplay's up to this standard, eh?





SUPER SCALING

When Pitfighter appears on Game Boy, you'll all have the chance to have a good old guffaw at Megadrive and Super NES console owners. Why? Because, while the supposed big-boy machines could only manage fighting on one plane, your version sports the most amazing sprite scaling techniques ever seen on a hand-held! How do they do it? Because the Game Boy is one stunning piece of kit, that's how.

SPINACH - IS IT AWFUL OR WHAT?

Our Popeye loves his spinach - it does, after all, make him strong to the finish. He starts the game with three cans of this vile green vegetable, which act as units of energy. Collect a further two cans and Popeye gets his spinach power, making his biceps grow to massive proportions. More cans give our pipe-smoking powerhouse the ability to throw missiles at his enemies, but spinach loss results, ultimately, in the loss of a life.

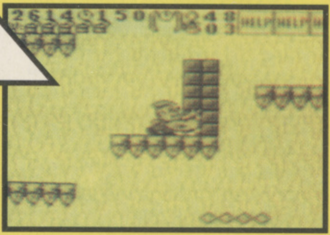
GET YOUR FILL OF GOODIES GALORE!

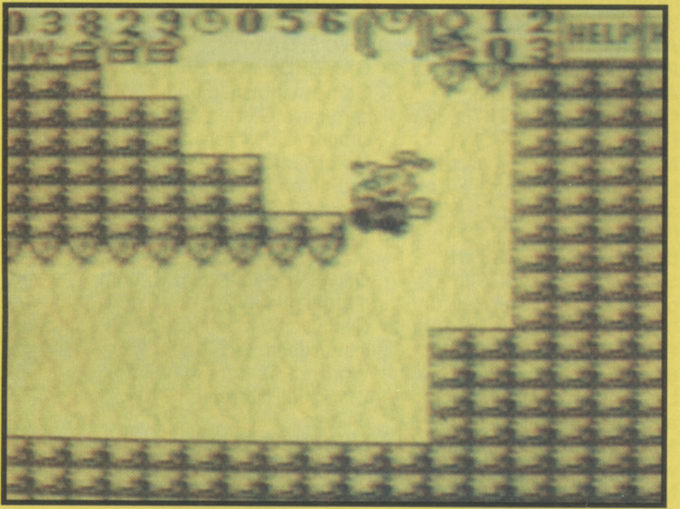
Punch the dark bricks and they'll disintegrate. Not very gratifying, maybe, but some of the bricks conceal objects that'll help Popeye complete his tasks with the greatest of ease. Extra time, cans of spinach, free lives and limited invulnerability are all on offer to those lucky enough to find them.

"Everyone's favourite spinach-muncher returns to the Game Boy and boy, does he pack a punch! Super Mario gameplay abounds, with cute graphics and sonic fun and frolics high on the agenda. It's not the easiest cart around either. Fill yer pipe with a pouchful of Popeye - you'll be at it for ages!"

PAUL RAND

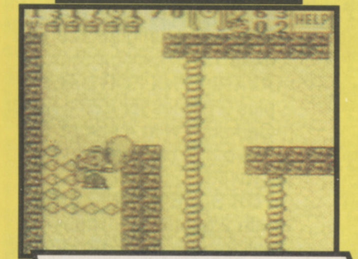
He's strong to the finish 'cos he eats his spinach - he's Popeye the sailor man! Chomp on nasty, green vegetation and leap around in caves with the pipe-puffing Popeye!



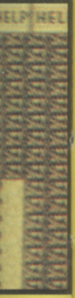


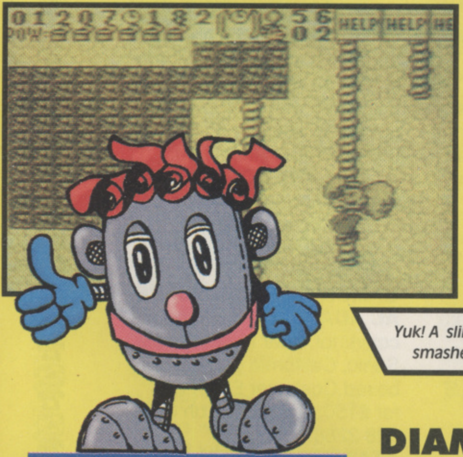
REAMS OF ROOMS

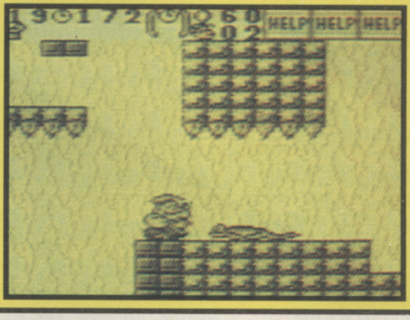
Dotted around Popeye's world are suspect closed doors. If you can find a route to reach them you soon discover that there's nothing suspect at all behind them; the doors lead Popeye to rooms full of shining diamonds and bonus items! Take your fill of the goodies, but watch that timer; you don't want Popeye to run out of seconds, do you!

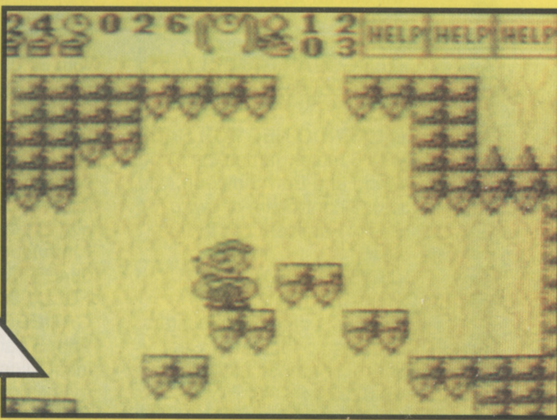


Look at all those diamonds! Pick 'em up quick, then get outta there!









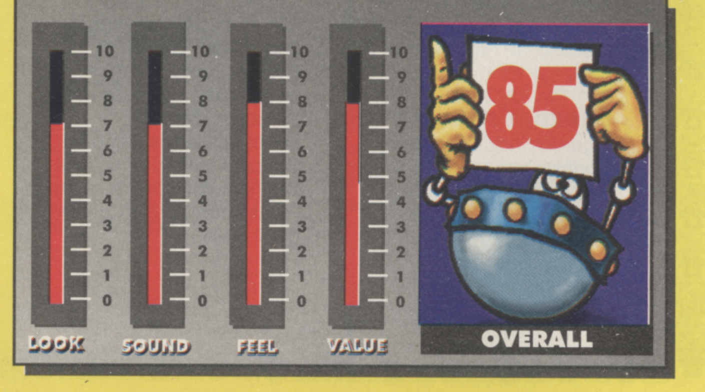
Yuk! A slimy cave monster that doesn't like sailors - but if Popeye smashes the bricks he's standing on, he'll get tons of power-ups!

Pipes and skinny women are the order of the day in Popeye 2! Super Mario gameplay abounds in this great cart, packed to the brim with cute graphics and playability second to none. A top-notch slice of hand-held fun and japery!

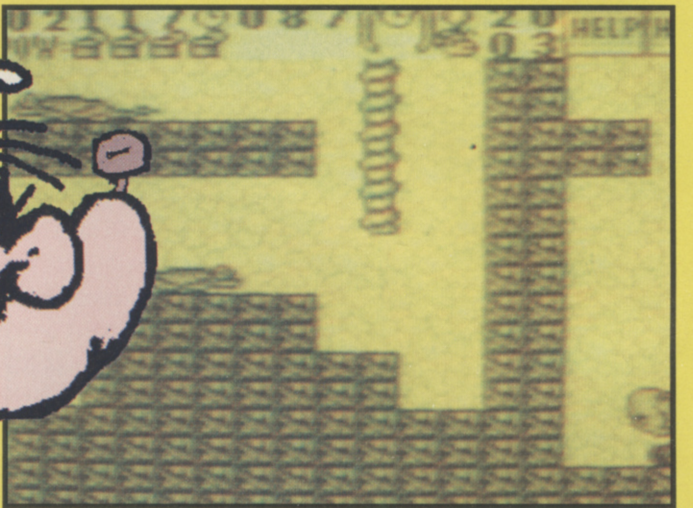
FRANK O'CONNOR

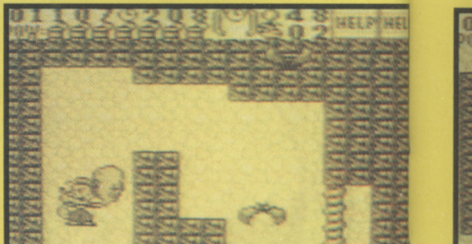
DIAMONDS ARE A SAILOR'S BEST FRIEND

Diamonds, diamonds everywhere and if you want to get a boltload of lives you'd better collect them all! As in the Super Mario series (except they used coins, not gems) pick up a hundred diamonds and Popeye is awarded a free life; and you'll need as many as you can get when you reach the difficult later stages!



POPEYE



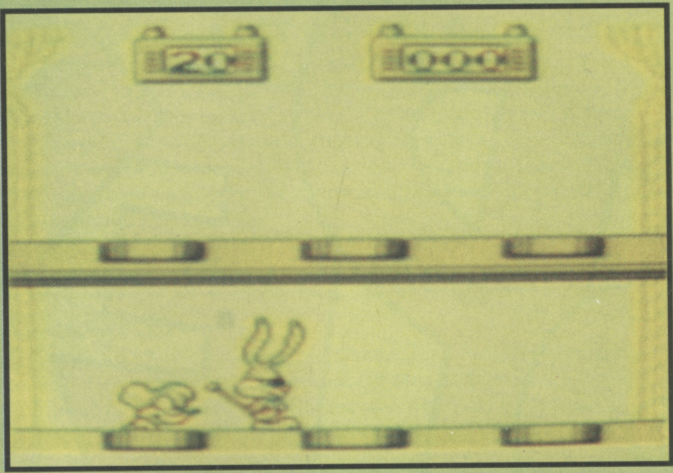


He's strong to the finish, 'cos he eats his spinach - he's Popeye the Sailor Man! The only man in the world to enjoy eating this foul green stuff returns to the Game Boy in a quest to find Wimpy, Sweet Pea and his beloved Olive Oyl, kidnapped by the dastardly Bluto. Flex your muscles, suck your pipe and set off through level after level of Super Mario-style action and adventure, dicing with danger and doing your best to survive long enough to find your friends and put an end to bad Bluto's scheming.

GAME BOY - £24.99

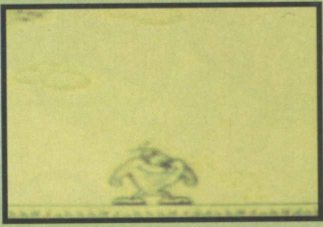
FUN WITH FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

Jump onto the boxes that are suspended in the air and out will fall pieces of fruit and veg! Not very useful, you may initially think. Ah, but you'd be wrong. Wrong, wrong, wrong. Because each of the Tiny Toons can use this stuff to hammer their enemies with. Buster, being a rabbit, throws carrots at the baddies, Plucky chucks pineapples and fat Hamton tosses his melons when the nasties give him jip.



FIND A FRIENDLY FACE

Buster, Plucky and Hamton have lots of Toon pals because they're so great and popular, unlike Frank and Jon who nobody likes and always fail at pulling when they go to The Flask. Anyway, the boys will need to find their most trusted chums on each level if they harbour any thoughts of advancing further into the game, as each friend has a special ability which will overcome an otherwise impossible situation.



> "What an amazingly amazing game this is! Tiny Toon Adventures is a stunning piece of Mario magic, with super graphics and loads of humour. There aren't an abundance of levels, but there's so much to see, do and find you'll not have time to worry about stage-lack problems. Rush out and grab Tiny Toons yesterday!"
>
> PAUL RAND

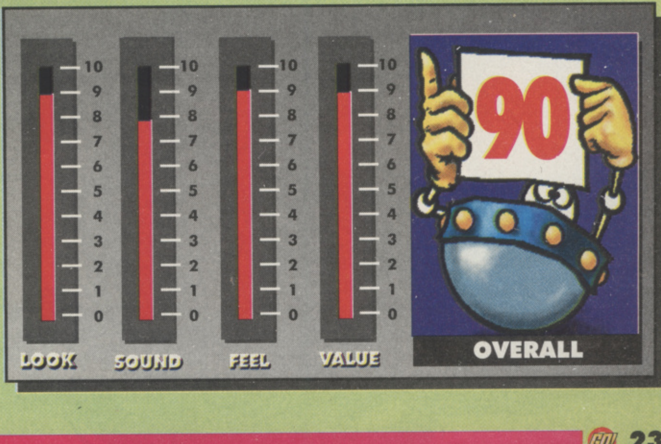
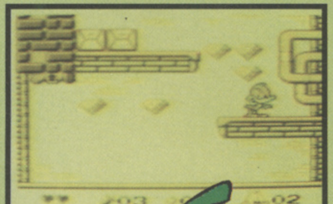
GUMPH! GREAT GAMES

Like in the Super Mario games, jumping down a tube (in this case, tree-trunks or manholes) takes the player to secret rooms. Unlike the Super Mario games, some of the secret places are sub-games! There's Montana Mash; a bit like that 'Smack The Mole Over The Head With A Plastic Mallet' game that became popular for eighteen seconds in the Eighties, and Race Against Toon, where the player can select a fellow Toon to race against in a 100m dash. Winners collect prizes in abundance, but losers win naught 'cept disdain and disgrace throughout Toonland. Pah..

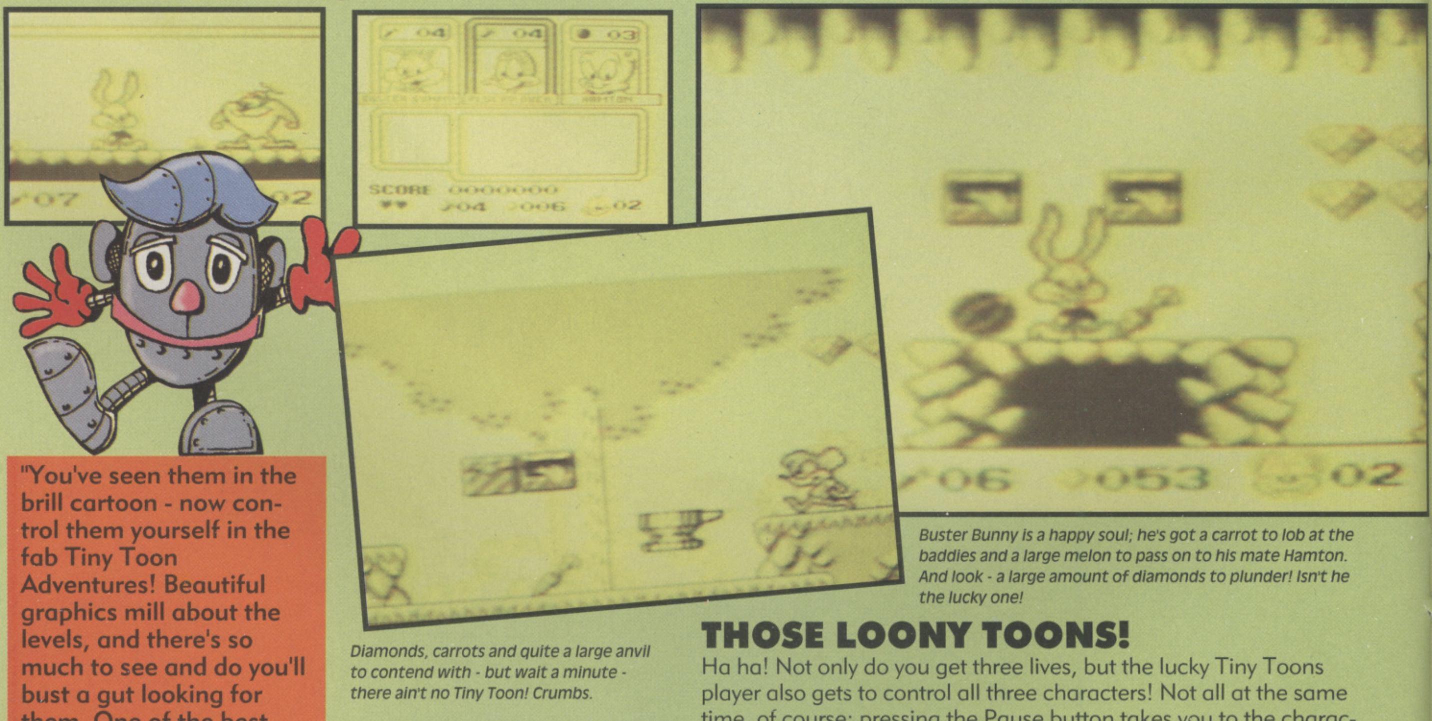


TINY TOON ADVENTURES



They're tiny! They're toony! They're all a little loony! And in this cartoony, they're invading your TV! Okay, so it sounds a bit better when it's sung to the tune playing on the box, but that's not the point. The Tiny Toons are little versions of some of your favourite cartoon characters and they've been given the Nineties treatment by none other than the man who brought us the Indiana Jones films and the classic ET - Steven Spielberg! Join Buster Bunny, Plucky Duck and Hamton Pig as they help Babs realise her dream of treading the boards at the Acme Theatre. Unfortunately, Montana Max wants to turn the theatre into a vault for his disgustingly large sum of money; can the boys stop him? If not, that's all folks!

GAME BOY - £24.99



Buster Bunny is a happy soul; he's got a carrot to lob at the baddies and a large melon to pass on to his mate Hamton. And look - a large amount of diamonds to plunder! Isn't he the lucky one!

Diamonds, carrots and quite a large anvil to contend with - but wait a minute - there ain't no Tiny Toon! Crumbs.

"You've seen them in the brill cartoon - now control them yourself in the fab Tiny Toon Adventures! Beautiful graphics mill about the levels, and there's so much to see and do you'll bust a gut looking for them. One of the best new titles around!"
TIM BOONE

THOSE LOONY TOONS!

Ha ha! Not only do you get three lives, but the lucky Tiny Toons player also gets to control all three characters! Not all at the same time, of course; pressing the Pause button takes you to the character selection screen where just a simple tap lets you choose the Toon you desire! So for the mathematicians amongst you, that's three characters multiplied by three lives, making NINE LIVES in all!

WIN A TON OF NUBY GEAR!

Five Nuby Add-On packs up for grabs!

Here we go with the first GO! Compo! From now on, we'll be running regular competitions in the world's best mag for portable playfiends. Some comps will be for individual machines, others will be for everyone. This month, it's lucky Game Boy owners who get the chance to scoop a stack of stuff!

We've teamed up with Nuby, official manufacturers of some of the hottest Game Boy peripherals around, to give you the chance of winning one of FIVE add-on packs worth nearly ONE HUNDRED POUNDS EACH!

What you get if you win is as follows: Three carry-cases (one soft, one hard, one attache); a Game Light; a Game Boy Magnifier; a Game Boy Amplifier; a Game Boy Holster and a Game Light Plus!

So what the devil do you have to do to put yourself in with the opportunity of waltzing off with one of these terrific add-on packs, eh? What we want you to do is design your own peripheral for the Game Boy! It can be anything you want - something that Nuby themselves could possibly build, or an add-on that couldn't possibly work but would be a great laugh nonetheless - it's entirely up to you!

So start creating! And please use paper without lines because it doesn't reproduce very well were we to print your entry. Send those designs to: BOY OH BOY! WHAT A JOY! AN ADD-ON FOR MY GAME BOY!, GO!, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU. Get those entries in by 11th July, 1992, otherwise you'll be in with no chance of getting anything!

> "Not quite a gold medal winner, but Olympic Gold certainly doesn't need steroids to be a hit! Graphically it's good, and although we've seen the gameplay loads of times before, there are enough events to keep you going for some time."
>
> PAUL RAND

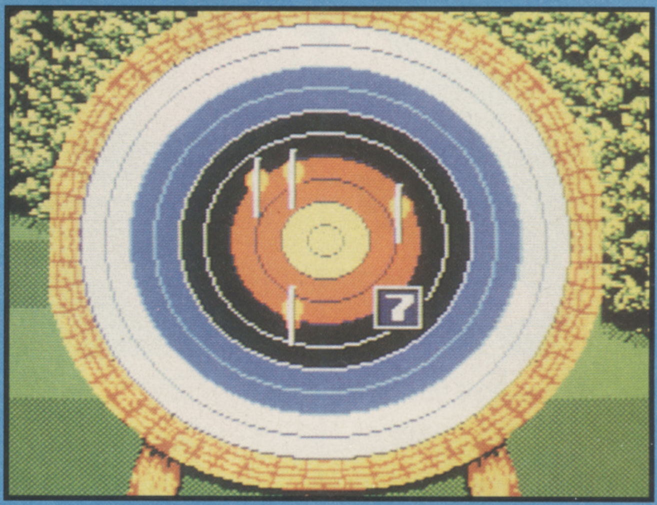
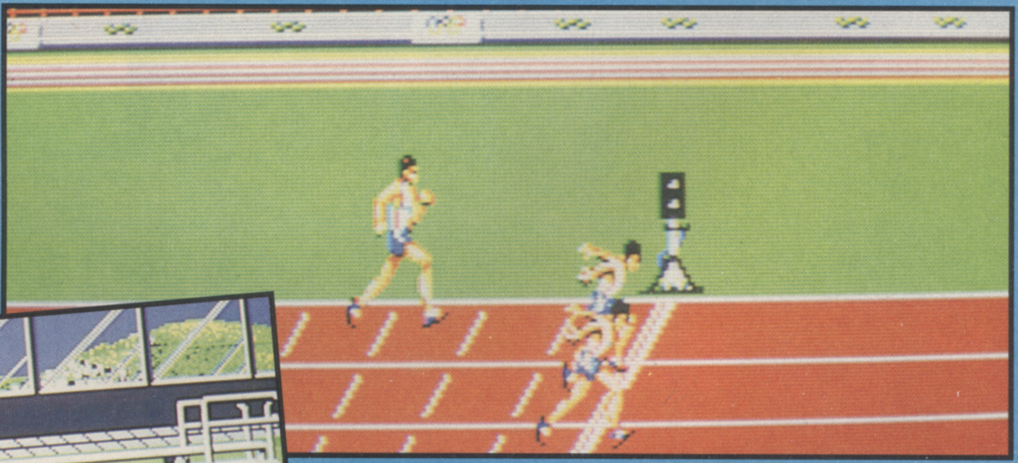
HOW GOOD ARE YOU?

Not every one can be a Seb Coe or Mark Spitz on their first outing, so it's a good idea to try one of the less demanding difficulty settings before going for all-out success. Choose from either club level, national abilities or full Olympic difficulty setting. It's best to move up in stages - after all, even the best track and field stars began as young hopefuls!

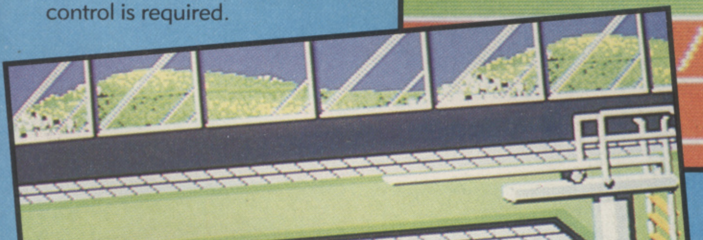


TWO WAYS TO PLAY

Olympic Gold relies on two different types of gameplay. The first is the familiar button-hammering technique to make your Olympians run or swim their hearts out, while the other is akin to the likes of California Games, where more skilled control is required.



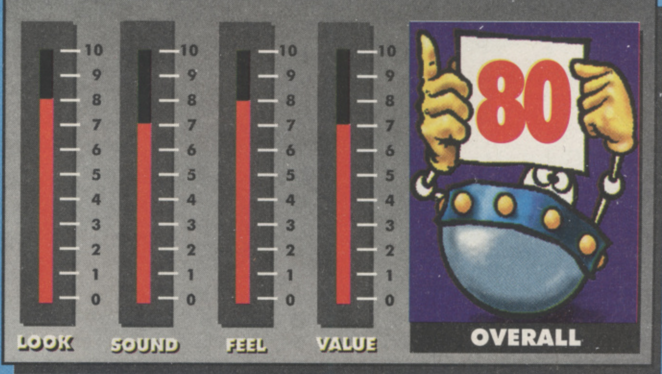
These lads can run again because those traffic lights aren't on red any more!



I bet that wasn't ultra-comfortable!

AND THE EVENTS ARE...

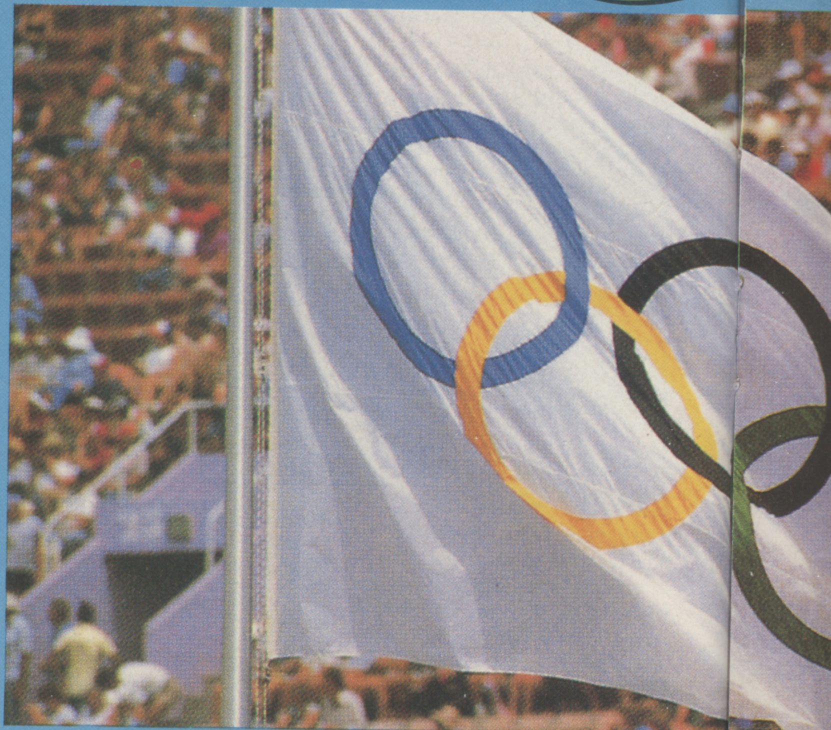
There are seven events in all to tackle on your way to Olympic glory. Try your hand - and your feet - at the 100m Sprint, Hammer Throwing, Archery, 110m Hurdles, Pole Vaulting, Springboard Diving and Sprint Swimming. A lot of events to try, and a lot of practise will be needed to become proficient at them all!

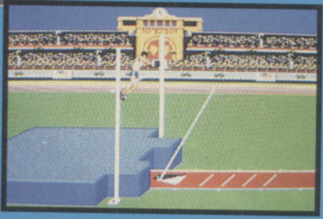


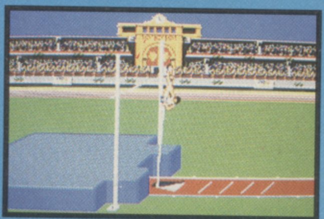
OLYMPIC

Tug on those shorts and tie up the laces on your expensive trainers, the get out onto the track and take part in the Barcelona Olympic Games! US Gold pick up the rights to the latest instalment in this four-yearly event and come up with a multi-eventer in which the player tackles a variety of Olympic sports with the aim of becoming the best at each event and collecting gold each time. If you don't feel up to a full competition, you can train in any of the events at a variety of difficulty levels. When you're at your peak, then go for gold and smash a few records while you're at it!

GAME GEAR - £26.00

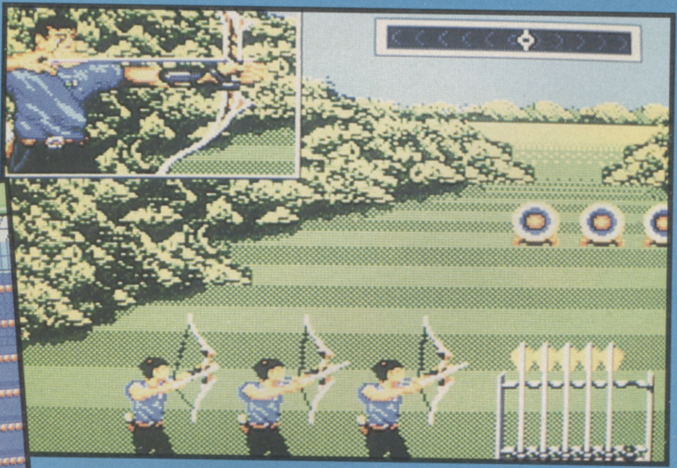




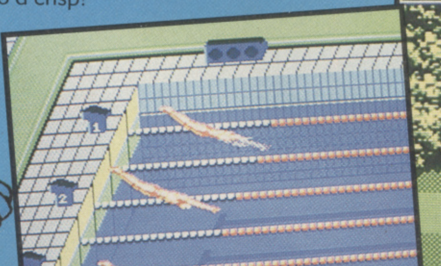


FRYING TONIGHT!

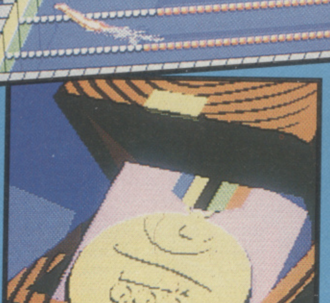
You may be a little young to remember, but way back in the 1984 Olympics a rather unfortunate incident occurred right at the start. During the opening ceremony, the torch was lit and the customary doves were set free. The trouble was, a sudden gust of wind blew the flames from the torch over to where the doves were flying, frying a selection of the birdies to a crisp!



It's a bullseye! Lovely, great, smashing. And you've won the fitted kitchen...



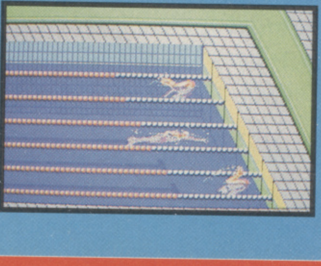
"I love the Olympics, me. And although Olympic Gold doesn't quite capture the feel of the event itself, it's still a lot of fun. With seven different events and lots of different options, it'll take a while to get the gold - but you'll have a fair amount of fun trying!"
FRANK O'CONNOR

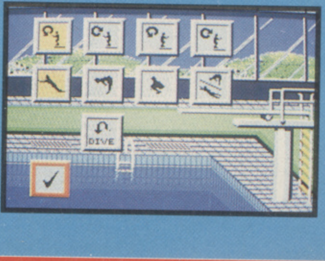


Think you'll be good enough to beat the rest and be the best? Here's the ultimate accolade if you achieve your dreams!

IT'S THE REAL THING

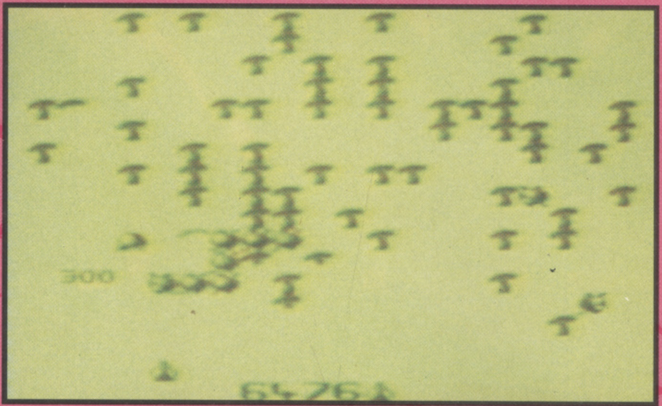
US Gold have found a none-too-small ally in their quest to push Olympic Gold to the fore during the Barcelona Games. The game has been endorsed by those giants of the soft-drinks industry, Coca Cola, who are also official sponsors for the entire event!





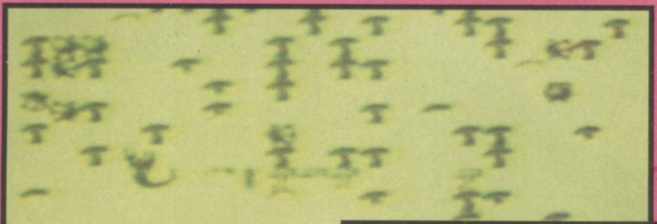
LEGS

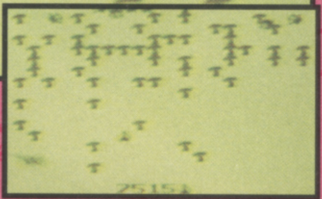
As if the malevolent, many-legged marauder isn't enough to worry about, that sly centipede has brought a few friends along with him. While some creatures replace mushrooms that you've already toasted, some nasties, like the spider, bounce around the screen, trying to crush you. So stay on your toes and out of the way.



LEGS

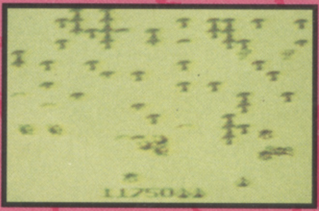
As the centipede winds his way down the screen, he'll weave in and out of the many mushrooms which grow in the garden. Not only does all this turning and twisting keep him fit, it also gives him quite a bit of cover. The best thing for the cannon controller to do is destroy a ton of mushrooms so that he can get a bead on his target.



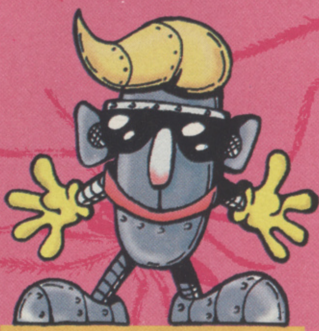


AND MORE LEGS

Remember when you were a little kid and used to cut insects apart with sharp objects? Remember how they used to wriggle about a bit and then die? Well, this centipede must have super powers because, when you shoot it, it splits into pieces and the pieces keep on coming after you!

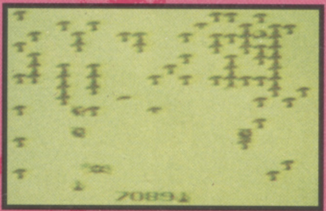


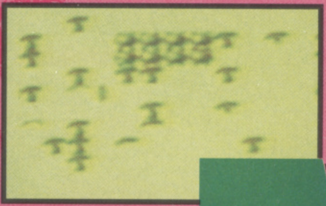
I don't like the look of that...



"The wave of old coin-op conversions continues with a vengeance, but I think Accolade have slipped up a bit with Centipede. It never was the most thrilling blast in the world and it looks decidedly out of place in the Nineties. Only die-hard fans need apply."

PAUL RAND





CENTIPEDE

Down in the mushroom garden, things aren't too hot. A hungry centipede is rampaging through the undergrowth, chomping its way through anything that dares to stray into its path. But, thanks to the advancements in modern science and technology, you've been shrunk down to tiny proportions, along with your laser cannon, to deal with the threat to the vegetation. After appearing on almost every computer format ever produced, the classic Centipede makes its debut on the Game Boy. The object is simple - destroy the title character on each level before he or his cronies wipe you out. No nonsense. No fuss.

MISSILE COMMAND

It's happened! Some nutter has pressed The Button and nukes are falling out of the sky like raindrops! As the commander of two anti-missile bases, it's down to you and you alone to prevent the unthinkable happening across sixteen major cities throughout the world! Missile Command, one of the greatest arcade games ever created, comes to the Game Boy! All of the original features are in there, along with new ones never seen in the coin-op version! The fate of billions rests in your hands - please don't muck up.

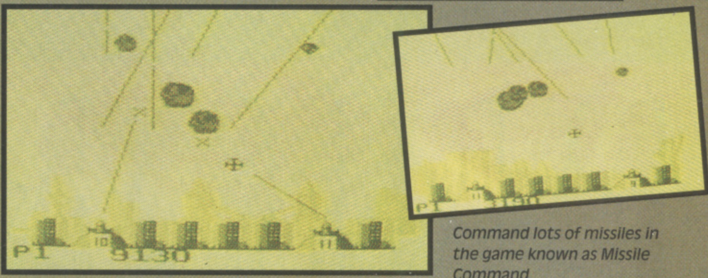
GAME BOY - £24.99

BOMB FOR BONUSES!

It's not all work, work, work. Oh alright then, it is. But that doesn't mean to say that you're not rewarded for a job well done. Each time you score 10,000 points, an extra building is built in the city. Handy when you're down to your last tower block, but you may find it easier to deliberately trash some of the buildings on later levels, just to give you time to get to all the missiles!

"Yeah! Another convert from a classic coin-op and, like the others, Missile Command is a spot on version of its arcade parent. As a matter of fact, there are a few features not seen in the original! Experienced arcade junkies may find the going a little easy, but if you're into nostalgia but can't stomach singing war songs around the piano, this is one to go for."

PAUL RAND



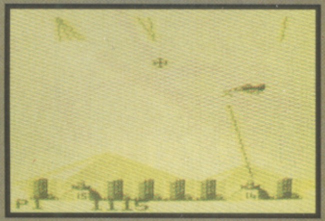
Command lots of missiles in the game known as Missile Command.

SATELLITES SET ALIGHT A LOTTA SIGHTS

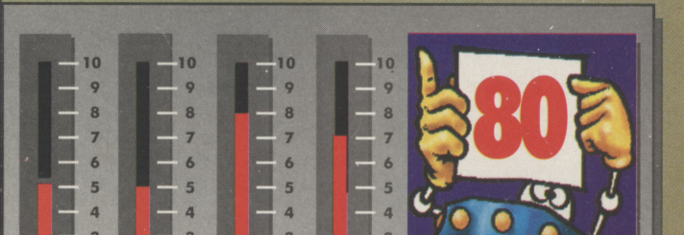
It's not just atom bombs the lucky commander must keep an eye out for; satellites are on constant alert, sweeping the skies, and bomber planes fly past, dropping guided minelets behind them. Needless to say, things can get pretty hairy the further you progress

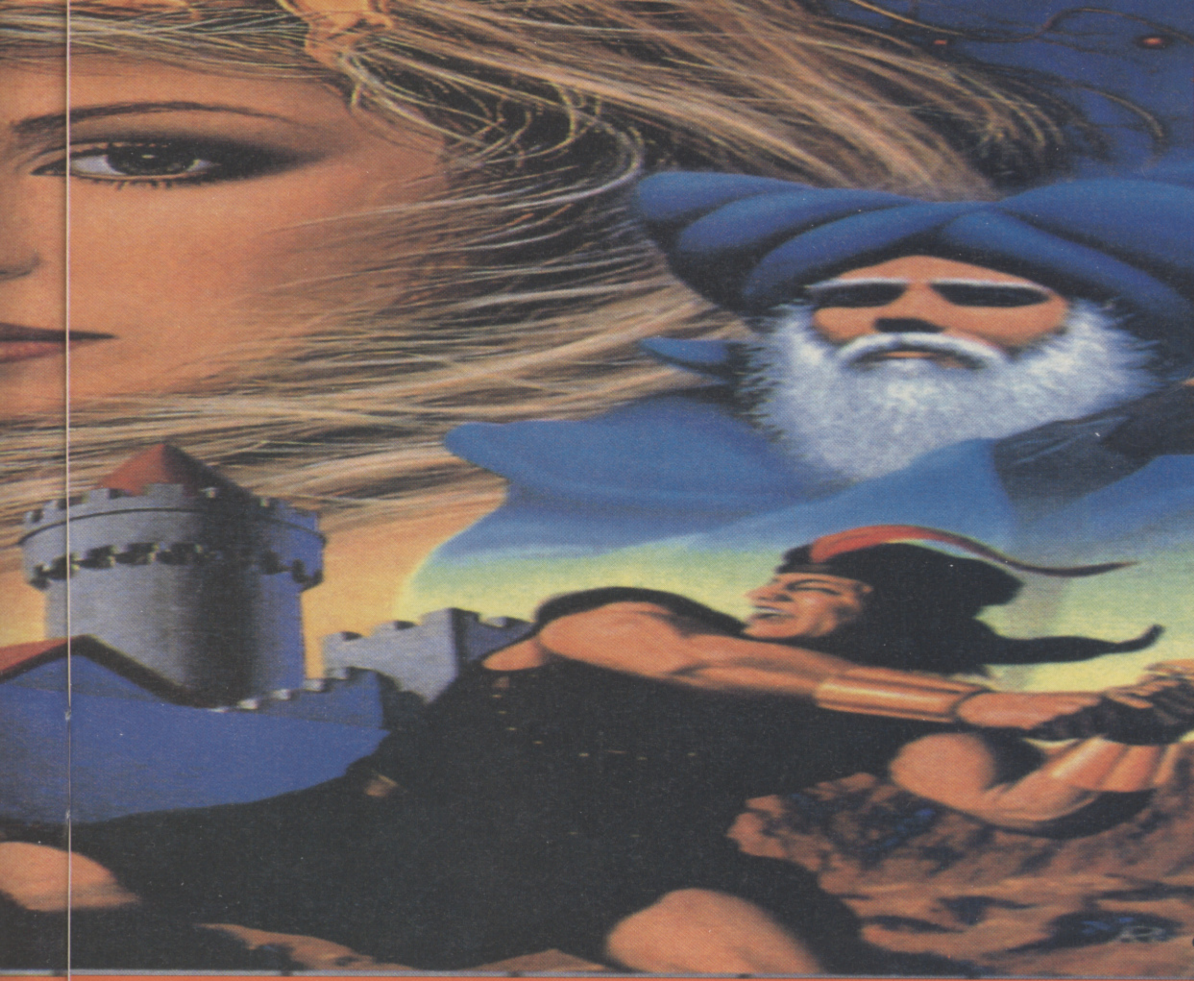
WE BUILT THIS CITY

Each city is made of a number of buildings which must be protected from attack - if you lose them all, it's nuclear winter all round and game over, man!

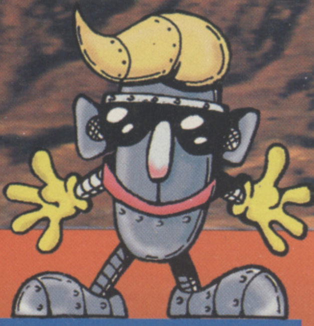


Oooh. Lots more nuclear missiles that look nothing at all like Etch-a-Sketch lines.





ARRIORS



Initially, I didn't think much of Crystal Warriors. But it does grow on you the longer you play. Graphically it isn't the bees knees, but the strategic nature of the game will have you battling to the end.

PAUL RAND

THE JOY OF SHOPPING

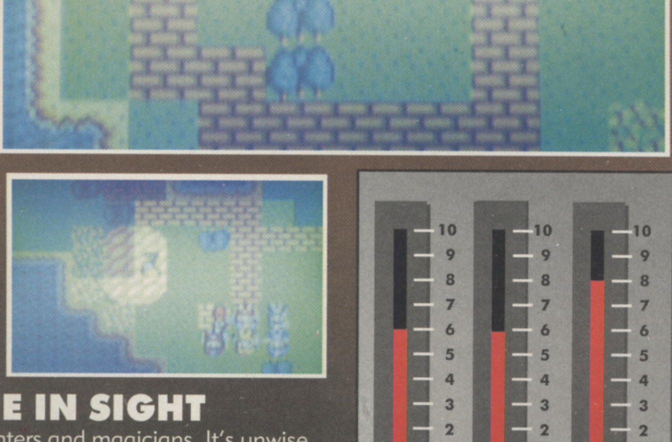
Complete a level and your merry band are whisked off to a small town where goodies can be bought and gossip caught up on. New party members can be hired - at a price - and weaponry and spells are available at extortionate rates.

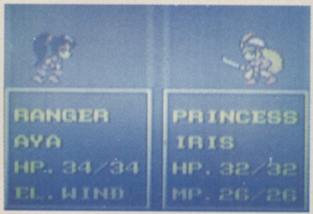
SO WHAT DO YOU DO?

The object of Crystal Warriors is to complete each level by getting your team to the enemy stronghold at the other side of the screen. Various baddies will attack as you go, but killing these nasties results in experience points which increase your skills, and money that lets you purchase much-needed equipment in the end-level shops.

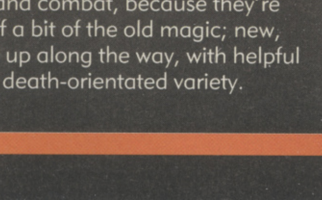
NO LOVELY DEBBIE IN SIGHT

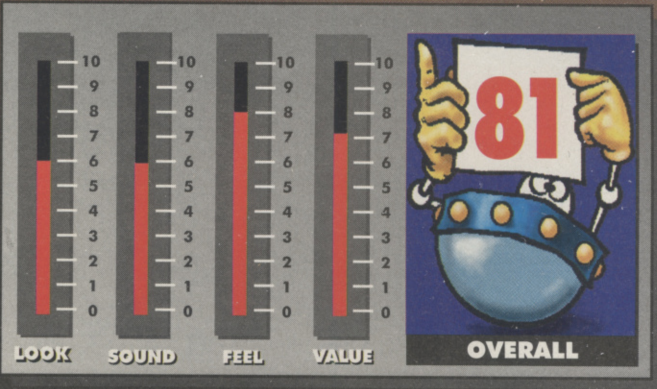
Your group is made up of both fighters and magicians. It's unwise to send spellcasters into hand-to-hand combat, because they're rubbish at it. Better instead to let off a bit of the old magic; new, more powerful spells can be picked up along the way, with helpful spells available as well as the more death-orientated variety.





The evil Ranger Aya is one tough lady - but she's no match for Princess Iris!

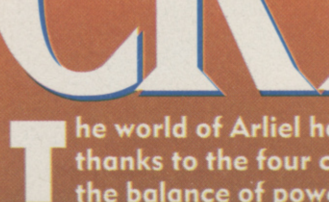




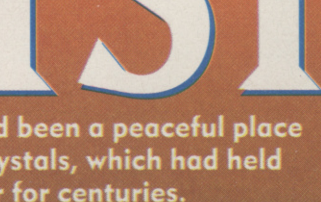
CRYSTAL WA

The world of Arliel had been a peaceful place thanks to the four crystals, which had held the balance of power for centuries. Unfortunately, three of the four crystals have been stolen by the dark lord Grym. The fourth, however, is in the safe hands of the princess Iris - but not for long, if Grym has anything to do with it. He's sent an army of strange and monstrous followers to track down Iris and the crystal. Iris, on the other hand, is on her way, with a band of trusty friends, to sort out old Grym and retrieve the other nicked gems - not the simplest of tasks, we think you'll agree.

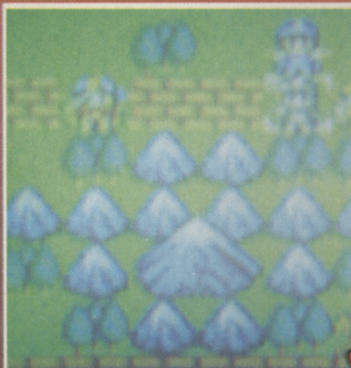
GAMEGEAR - £24.99



A quaint little village - why not go inside the buildings and buy some stuff?



The trick here is to get the nasties off the bridge so you can cross to the castle!



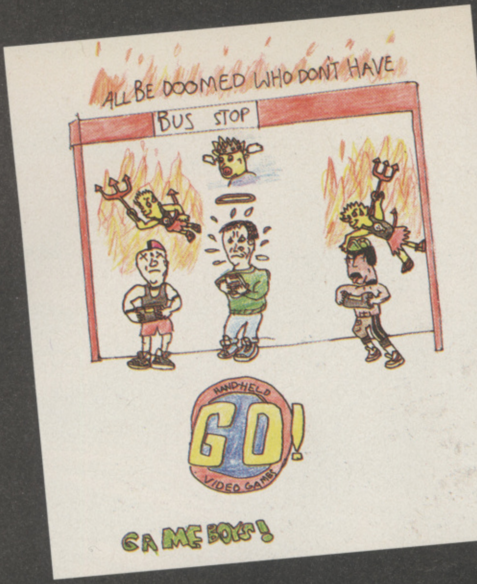
Uh oh! Those baddies are getting closer; use a Scan spell to find out what they are.

FIGHTING FANTASIES

Whenever your party comes into contact with the baddies of the piece, the screen switches to a side-on view of both the character doing the fighting and the nasty doing the hassling. Battling couldn't be more simple; just choose what action you want to take from the menu and you're away!

Arcade fans might turn their noses up at Crystal Warriors, which is sad as it's quite a neat cart. Good graphics for this type of game and a lasting challenge are what you get for your money.

TIM BOONE



What a fine illustration, sent by MRD of Maidenhead, Berks.

Now I've got some questions:

1. Is the Lynx capable of reproducing Streetfighter 2 on its smart screen?

2. Talking about Pitfighter, will it have digitised graphics?

3. Is the Lynx really the fastest video game system?

Please answer my questions. I know my English is not very good but I think the questions are interesting, and I know your mag is the most colourful, addictive and enjoyable in the universe.

KEN LONGTON,
Madrid, Spain

1. There's no reason why the Lynx can't have a good crack at creating a similar graphic style to Streetfighter 2, although I wouldn't hold your breath waiting for the game to appear.

2. As far as we know, yes it does.

3. Not really, but who cares when the games are fab?

LET'S HEAR IT FOR THE GIRLS

Dear GO!,

I am referring to the letter by Simon Murphy in issue 7 of GO!. I'm sure Simon knows the Game Boy is the best hand-held games machine in the whole world. But he doesn't seem to know that girls are interested too. I found his letter quite insulting and I'd like to make it clear to him that a lot of girls are, how do you put it - hot on hand-helds. Does he really think that all girls hide away in a room and knit sweaters for their younger sisters?

Also in issue 7, Tom French tells us that the Game Gear rules and he also writes some very unpleasant remarks about the Game Boy. Well, for your information Tom, Game Boy owners do not need to change their Game Boys into televisions. We are not peasants - if we want a TV we simply go out and buy one. I speak for all truly dedicated Game Boy owners when I say he was way out of order. Does he own a Game Boy? Does he really know the full rage of games on offer for the Game Boy? I don't think so!

CARMEN DE BOURGONNIERE,
Guernsey, Channel Islands

PS Please print this letter as I'd like to get the message across from a girl's point of view. Oh, and keep up the good work, GO! - you're brilliant!

I'M SITTING ON THE FENCE, ME

Dear GO!,

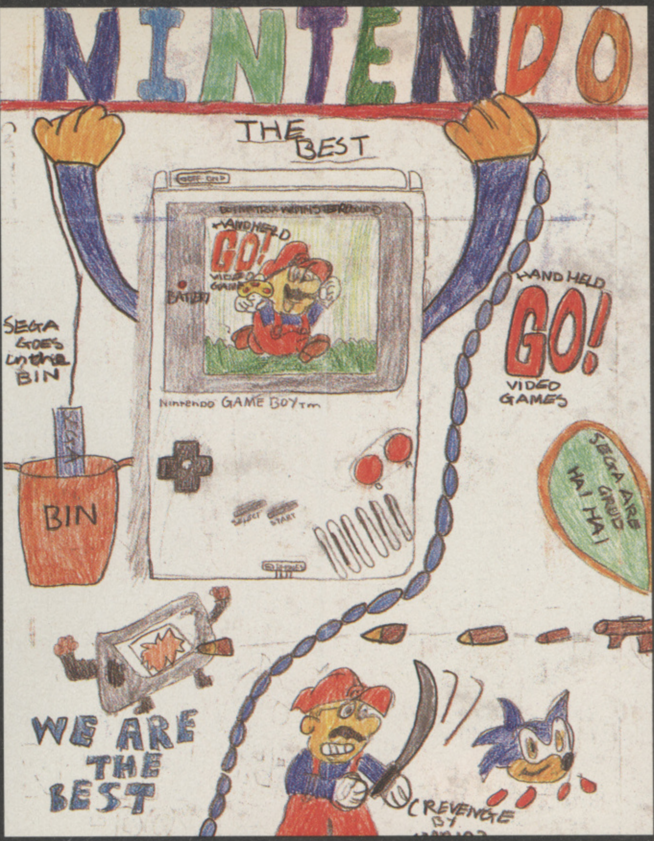
I think that all hand-helds are about as good as each other. I think this because they all have their good and bad points. I think the Game Boy is good because of the amount of good games you can get for it but, on the other hand, the colour isn't too good. The Game Gear has great graphics and colout but you can't get many games for it and the machine is a bit too big. The Lynx isn't too popular so linking up for two-player action will be hard to do. On the other hand, the games are classics with great graphics.

My overall results on hand-helds are:



Bit of Game Boy fan are you, Matthew Tai?

Game Boy - 89%

Game Gear - 90%

Lynx - 80%

So it's up to the person who's buying the hand-held which one suits him or her.

TIM DENNIS,
Newcastle-upon-Tyne

PS I have a Game Boy!

ASK A SILLY QUESTION...

Dear GO!,

Can I have a Sega Game Gear?

ANDREW J BRENNAN,
Co Leitrim, Ireland

No.

LOADS MORE LYNX PLEASE!

Dear GO!,

I think GO! is great! The presentation is colourful, clear and very understandable; the reviews and previews have plenty of screenshots - but where are the Lynx reviews? There are far too many Game Boy reviews in the last five issues of GO! There have been eighteen Game Boy reviews and only four Lynx reviews.

Another thing I was dismayed to find in the April issue was there were no charts in CVG or GO!

Here are a few questions to finish off with:

1. When are you going to review Lemmings on the Lynx?

2. When will Eye Of The Beholder be released?

3. When will World Class Soccer be released?

4. Are Final Fight, Magic Pockets or any decent flying games likely to be released on the Lynx?

GILES HEATHER,
Southampton, Hampshire

1. Just as soon as it's finished!

2. See 1.

3. See 2.

4. Final Fight is an almost definite no-no. Magic Pockets? No plans as yet, but you never know. And as for a decent flying game, why not try Warbirds - a fab and groovy dogfighting sim!

MAILBAG

And those letters just keep on coming! Letters of every shape and size, covering topics-a-plenty. But mostly to do with the hand-held world. Letters from all around the world, from boys and from girls. Who knows? Next time we may even get a couple of letters from a distant planet! But not if we don't give the address, which is: WHY BOMB AROUND THE GALAXY WHEN I CAN DELVE INTO INTERGALACTIC GO! MAILBAG, GO!, PRIORY COURT, 30-32 FARRINGDON LANE, LONDON EC1R 3AU. If you're letter's good enough, we'll send you a prize. So get writing!

WE DIG GO! DOWN UNDER!

Dear GO!,

I got my first CVG in January (it was the December issue because they come in late down here) and when I took it off the shelf, I thought it was great.

I bought it and, in the car, I noticed another magazine drop out.'Oh,' I thought, 'An order form or something.'

When I picked it up I noticed it said on the front 'GO!' in big lettering. When I opened it up I was blasted with a review of Castlevania 2 on Game Boy.

WOW! The info was great, the shots were larger than the normal pinhead size you find in other mags and...it was interesting. Not boring drivel like other mags, but straightforward interesting information!

Plus it's free with CVG! I was amazed, and now I buy CVG mainly for my free copy of GO!Keep up the most excellent work.

MATTHEW HAMM,
Wallacia, Australia

CLAMOURING FOR A COMPLETE GUIDE

Dear GO!,

I agree with Simon Veal (issue 7). I too think a Complete Guide To Hand-helds would settle every hand-held player's appetite. You could have sections with 'Hand-held High Scores' and sections with all the latest carts. It could maybe come out every 2-3 months. The possibilities are endless.

So, GO! I leave it up to you!

DANNY POTTS,
Filton Park, Bristol

WE'RE NOT ALL SAD GAMERS!

Dear GO!,

I have quite recently purchased a Game Gear with Sonic but I am annoyed. Although Sonic is a brilliant game, I found it very easy. As it was the first game I properly played on a Game Gear I would have thought it would give me a good challenge, but no. I completed it in three days with all six Chaos Emeralds. But most computer mags said it would give a good challenge to people new to the Game Gear, when in fact it is the easiest of the lot!

I also borrowed Donald Duck off a friend and completed that in an evening. I know that some people aren't very good gamers but a large majority are. Why is it that a lot of Game Gear games are very easy? And could you recommend a good game with a lasting challenge?

RICHARD YENDELL,
Cornwall

Come on Sega, as well as everyone else producing Game Gear games! Why not pump up the difficulty settings of your carts; sure, many gamers are new to portable playing but why not include a higher difficulty setting for hand-held veterans? If you want a real challenge, give Monster World II a whirl. It was reviewed last ish and scored a massive 92% - and it be BIG!

BOO HOO MUMMY! I WANT A GAME BOY

Dear GO!,

I want to sell my Master System for a Game Boy because all my friends have a Game Boy. Unfortunately, my mum won't let me sell and get the hand-held because she says they are a waste. But when I try to tell her that they are well wicked she just ignores me. Could you please help?

PHILLIP NICHOLSON,
Middlesbrough, Cleveland

Why not try showing her a few of the sad mags that are available for Master System owners and then shove a copy of the world's best mag for hand-helds in front of her nose? Doubtless she'll pick up GO! and, after just a few seconds, she'll soon get the message and give you the nod.

LENGTHY LYNX LETTER

Dear GO!,

David Bruxton in issue 6 really showed us what a square, sad kid he is. The Lynx may have more games than the good old Game Gear but who wants sad games like Viking Child or Zarlor Mercenary?

And what does he mean when he says that the Game Gear is ugly and does not feel right? At least it isn't a metre long like the Lynx!

JOHN PLANT,
Skelton, York

CRUMBS! A CORNUCOPIA OF QUEZZIES!

Dear GO!,

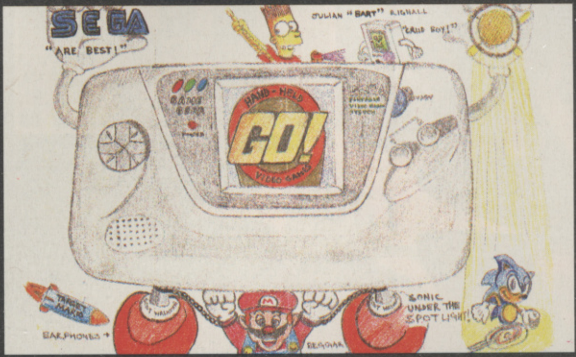
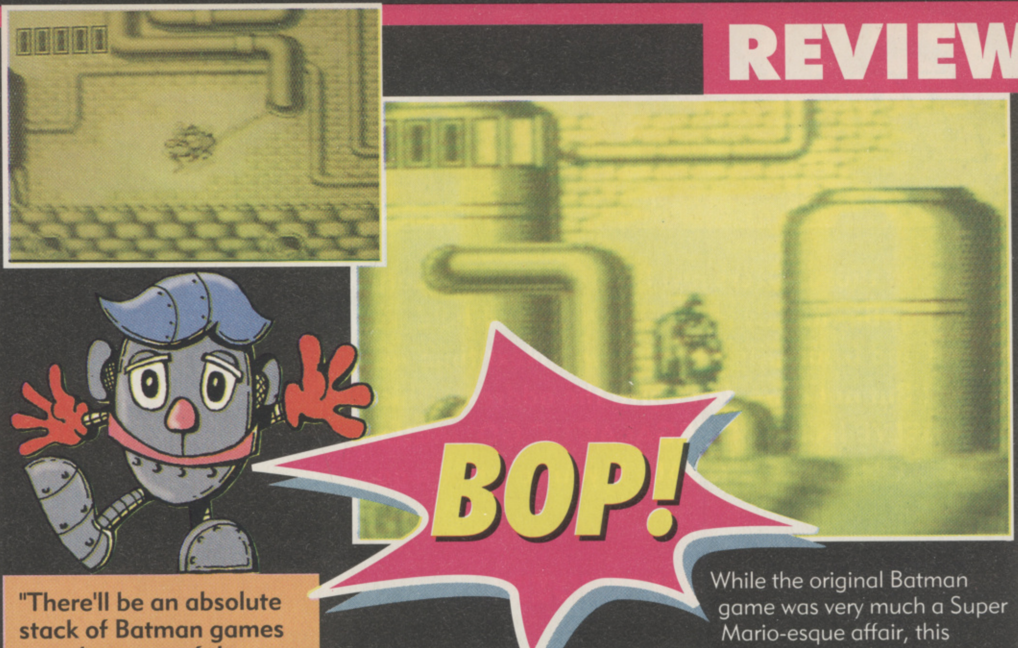
I have owned a Master System, but now I've got a brill Lynx. Consequently, I buy CVG only to get my GO! every month. when my friends had a look at GO!, they were very very impressed and now they are GO! maniacs too!

I decided to get my Lynx when I heard that Pitfighter, Toki, Viking Child, Strider 2, Shadow Of The Beast, Rolling Thunder, Eye Of The Beholder and Lemmings were to be released.



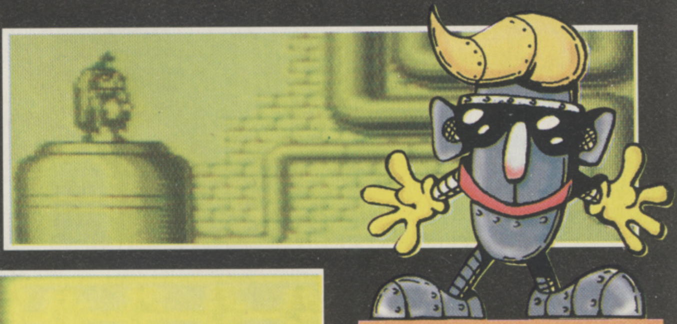
Wei Chan of Ipswich has excelled himselfwith this stunning piece of artistry!



While the original Batman game was very much a Super Mario-esque affair, this sequel is very much more arcade action based. Beating up big baddies, picking up energy and stuff - that's the sort of thing you'd expect Batman to do; not growing large moustaches and becoming a plumber!

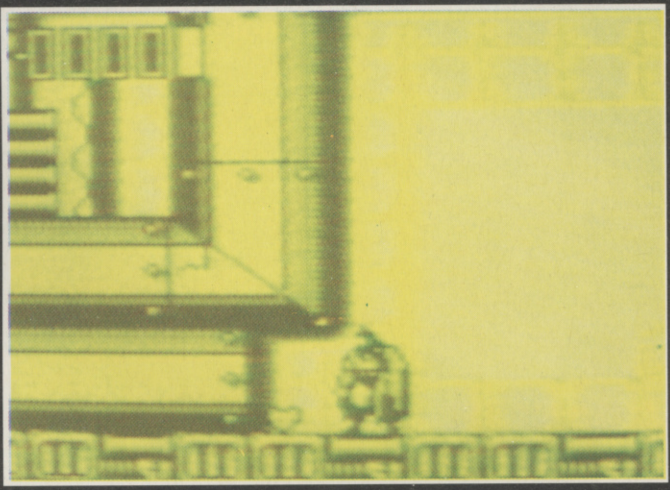
"There'll be an absolute stack of Batman games soon because of the movie sequel, and if there were a few more levels this would have been one of the best! Great graphics, sound and gameplay, but it'll not take you too long to get to the end of the game. Check it out, nonetheless!"

TIM BOONE

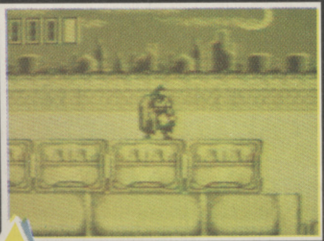


"Batman - Return Of The Joker is, at first glance, just what fans have been waiting for. An action-packed swing 'em up with huge sprites for a Game Boy and great sounds too. Thing is, there aren't many levels, making for short-lived gameplay - especially if you play on Easy mode. Mind you, the levels are quite large and the gameplay intense - why not have a butchers?"

PAUL RAND

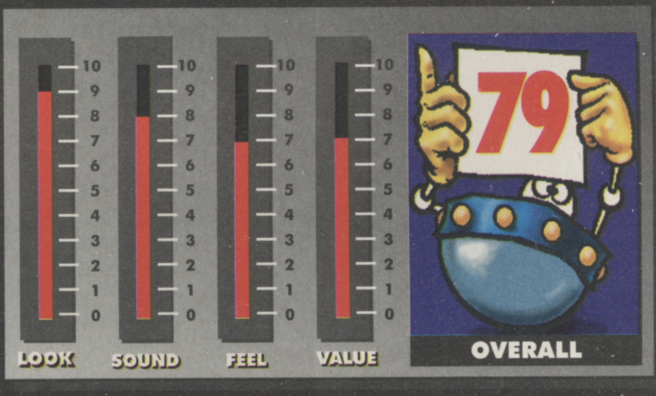


And here he is again...Mr Wayne in the costume that must have puzzled the tailors whom he asked to make it. Anyway, if he picks up that heart Batman'll have full strength once more.

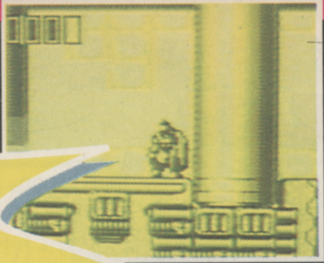


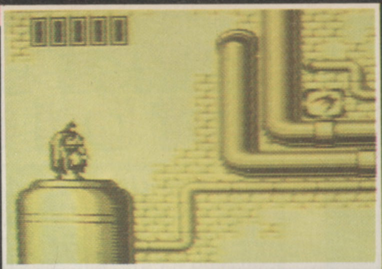
Hmm. Not much to KERPOW! here...

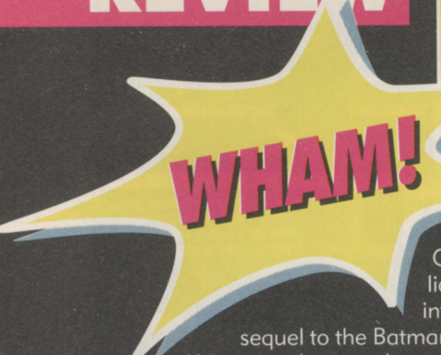
Bats can fly, but unfortunately Batman cannot. He can, however, swing around with the help of a bat-lassoo-thing which he throws and attaches to ceilings, allowing him to swing to his heart's content!



BATMAN
RETURN OF THE JOKER

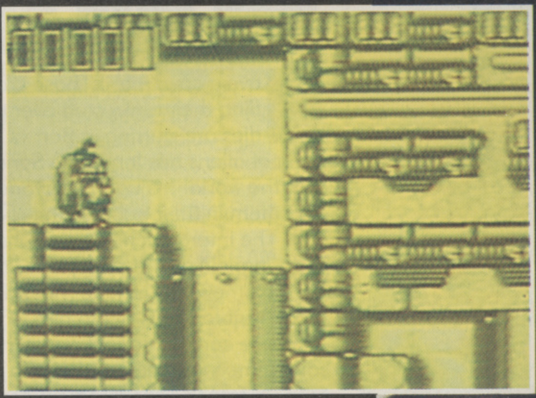




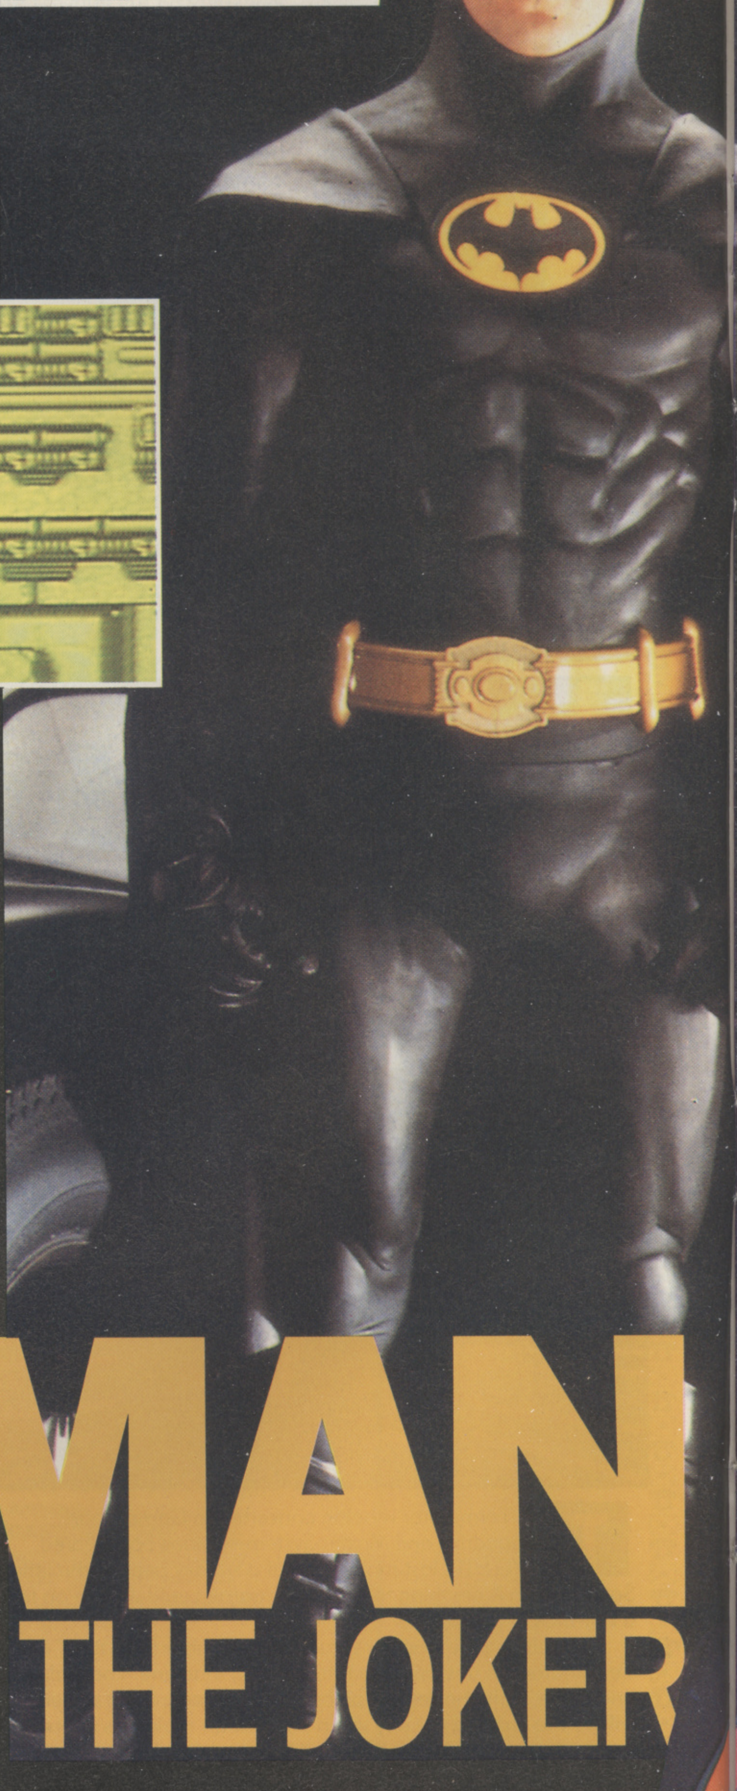


No, Batman - Return Of The Joker isn't a film license, although you may be interested to know that the sequel to the Batman movie starring Michael Keaton as the caped crusader is out soon. Appearing with Mikey are none other than Danny de Vito and Michelle Pfeiffer, who play the Penguin and Catwoman respectively. And did you know that Mr Keaton and lovely Ms Pfeiffer used to go out together? Ahem, ahem!

Have a little shufty around and you'll come across a Bat symbol in a square - that's the Batarang, which Batman throws at baddies to knock them out. Why's it called a Batarang? Because when it's thrown, it comes back to Batman's hand!



He's mean. he's moody. He's as hard as the lads who get into Randy's local. He's Batman!



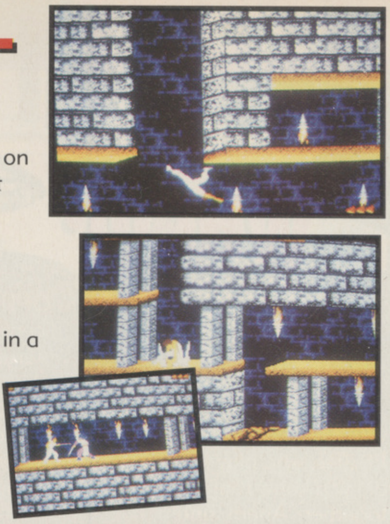
The man in black is back! Bruce Wayne, alias the mysterious Batman, once again dons his cape and strange hat to do battle with the evil and twisted Jack Napier, otherwise known as The Joker.

Different in style to the original Batman game on the Game Boy, Batman - Return Of The Joker features the Dark Knight in an all-swinging, all-dancing arcade extravaganza doing battle against the Joker's henchmen and the grinning gangster himself! Use your own physical skills and an array of special items to combat the deadly threat - and try not to die; baddy-busting bats are a rarity in Gotham City!

GAME BOY - £24.99

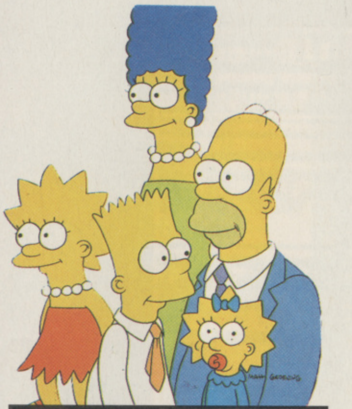
NEWS

PRINCE OF PERSIA - HOT ON GEAR!



No sooner has it caused a storm on Game Boy, than it's on it's way soon for the Game Gear! Yes, it's the excellent Prince Of Persia, in which you play an arabian knight, searching for the princess who has been kidnapped by the Grand Vizier Jaffer. The game is coming from Domark, who originally released the game in Britain, and it uses the same techniques in animation as seen in other versions of the title.

Prince Of Persia will be making its little Sega appearance in a couple of months time, closely followed a few weeks later by another top title; this time a conversion of the Taito coin-op Super Space Invaders! A souped-up version of the 70's phenomenon, Super Space Invaders will feature gameplay based on other top classic games such as Gorf and Galaxians, as well as the grand-daddy of them all.



IT'S THE SIMPSONS!

Have a cow, man! Those crazy Simpsons dudes are shuffling their funky stuff over to Game Gear! Bart and his buddies are starring in Bart vs The Space Mutants, in which a gang of aliens has landed in Springfield, with intentions of taking over the world! It's up to everyone's favourite underachiever to stop them in their tracks with the assistance of his trusty spray can! The intergalactic horrors are stealing all the purple objects in Springfield so they can power their space-gun, and young Bartholomew J must leap, bound and spray like wildfire before those 'orrible aliens get to him.

These early screens suggest that the graphic artists have spent some time in recreating the style of the brill Matt Groening cartoon. In fact the only problem could be that Bart vs The Space Mutants on other formats wasn't exactly the tops when it came to gameplay. Whether or not they've sorted this out on the baby Sega, you'll find out during the next few issues when The Simpsons are the stars of an exclusive GO! Review!

STOP PRESS! TERMINATOR ON GEAR!

The Terminator is being converted to Game Gear! Megadrive and Master System versions both scored CVG HITs last month and, if a sneaky peek at the little Sega version is anything to go by, the game could well be on for a hat-trick of accolades!

Controlling Kyle Reese, rescue Sarah Connor from the T-800 Terminator, an unstoppable future killing machine. Loadsalevels and some of the hottest graphics ever to grace a Gear screen will be the order of the day when Terminator makes its debut - soon - if you miss the Review you'll be a sad case!

WE'RE ON THE MARCH WITH SEGA'S ARMY

They're not averse to splashing the cash around, these Sega boys. They've just forked out a whacking great £2million in sponsorship for ITV's coverage of the European Championships! At the time of writing, all that Sega have got for their wad is a bit of a sad Sega logo at the end of the adverts for the footy finals, but come the competition proper (which will have just got underway when this issue of GO! hits the streets) the benefits should indeed have begun to be rewarded.

The recent Rugby World Cup Finals, sponsored by Sony, did absolutely no harm whatsoever for that electronics giant, so don't be surprised if sales of Sega stuff, including the Game Gear, shoot up during that month!
